A couple sentences: (I don't have an attendance number. Perhaps Tami or Dave have the sign up sheets)

Before the Dillingham meeting, EPA met with communities in the Iliamna/Newhalen area, as well as the villages of Ekwok and New Stuyahok. The meeting in Newhalen went from 7:00 pm until about 9:45 pm. It was attended by people from Iliamna, Newhalen, Nondalton, King Salmon, Naknek, Kokhanok and perhaps other villages. Many people spoke at the meeting but they fell generally into two groups. One group was very concerned about the economic future of their villages. They expressed concern that there are insufficient jobs in the region, that people are moving away, schools are closing and villages are in jeopardy. These people generally favor development, or at least that potential developers such as the Pebble Partnership be allowed to follow the normal permitting process. The other group was also concerned about the future but thought their future well being to be tied closely to the commercial and subsistence salmon fisheries. This group was concerned about the potential effects of development, especially mining, on the fishery.

Good idea, Judy. Margie's deadline is today, so if we could get her just a couple sentences (that's all she's really looking for) in the mean time, that'd be great.

Hi Rick - I think it would be a great idea if we could put together a "what we heard" summary for public consumption. If you can write down your thoughts, like you did for the February meetings, then Hanady and I can summarize them into a form suitable for external consumption. Thanks, Judy

Subject: MEDIA INQUIRY: Margie Bauman on Bristol Bay meetings

Who took the call/e-mail: Hanady Kader

Date and Time: June 10

Media Outlet: Margie Bauman, stringer for lots of papers

Reporter (include phone number and/or e-mail): Margie Bauman, margieb42@mtaonline.net

Topic: I would like to know the EPA's impressions of the views expressed at the Newhalen meeting that preceded the Dillingham meeting. How many people attended, about how long the meeting lasted and what views were expressed for and in opposition to the mine.

Action/Outcome: CCing Rick Parkin. Rick, can we offer this information in a nutshell?

Status: (pending or closed): Pending, deadline Monday 6/13
